As the festive season is here, there are many activities going on around town, and among them some are for a good cause, such as the “European Charity Carnival” at Carmo Fair in Taipa Village.

The carnival is organised by the Taipa Village Cultural Association with the aim of preserving while enriching the cultural and historic beauty of Taipa Village, while raising funds for charity in support of the Salvation Army’s effort in helping the less fortunate members of the community in Macau, especially during the festive season.

The carnival has European products such as specialty coffee, Provence tea and organic food, Belgium waffles, fine wines and of course, delicacies from European countries, which are showcased at Carmo Fair.
